A REMARKABLE DOG FIGHT.

FROGTOWN IN A GRAND FUROR.

Who ever saw a dog fight without curiosity to see it out—go in—put in a word—get excited, and not unfrequently fight also? We have no distinct recollection of having ever seen a serious, regular pitched battle between two dogs without a general fight among the bystanders, or a scrimmage between the owners of the animals at least.

But the most remarkable dog fight on record perhaps, came off at Frogtown, on the frontiers of Maine, some years ago. It beat all play masses of the kind we ever heard of; it engrossed the entire community in one general indiscriminate melee—interminable law suits or suits of law suits—distraction of the town, its downfall and ruin.

A fanciful genius named Joe Tucker, a man about town—a lounge—without visible means of support—a do-nothing, loafing, cigar-smoking, good-natured sort of fellow—owned a yellow dog; a stick intelligent and rather pretty beast, always at Joe's heels, and known as well as his master, and liked far more by the Frogtowners. One day Joe and his dog were passing Benton's grocery store, when a great piebald ugly looking dog, standing along side of a wood wagon, pounced on Joe Tucker's dog—knocked him heels over head, and so frightened Bob Carter's wife—who was passing towards her husband's blacksmith shop with his dinner, that she stumbled backwards, and her old son bonnet dropping off scared the horse attached to the wood wagon. He started—hit Latherman's barber pole—upset the load of wood, half of which fell down Gumbo's refreshment cellar, struck one of Gumbo's children on the head; killed it for a time stone dead; and so alarmed Mrs. Gumbo, that she dropped a stew pan of hot boiling oysters into the lap, instead of the dish of a customer, who sat waiting for the savory concoction, by a table in the corner. Mrs. Gumbo rushed to the child—the customer for the door! Mrs. Gumbo screamed, the child screamed, and the customer yelled! "O, oh! oh-h-h-h-h, my poor child!" cried Mrs. Gumbo.

"Eh, eh, e-e-e-e-e;" screamed the child.

"O, murder-r-r! O, by ever-esting sin, I'm called to all eternity! Murder-r-r!" roared the customer.

The horse, post of a wagon, and some wood, were on their mad career. The owner of the strange dog came out of the store in time to see Joe Tucker seize a rock to demolish said dog; and not waiting to see Joe "let drive," gave him such a pop in the back of the ear, that poor Joe fell forty yards up the street; and striking the foot of a ladder, upon which Jim Ellersberg was perched—paint put in hand—some thirty feet from terra firma, brought ladder, Jim and paint pot sprawling to the earth—cripping poor Jim for life, and sprinkling the blue paint copiously over the broad-clothes, satinet and calicoes of Abraham Miller, a formal and even tempered quaker, who ran out of the door, just as the two dogs had fairly gone at it—hip and thigh—nip and catch. A glance at matters seemed to convince Abraham of the true state of the case; and in an unusually elevated voice, Abraham called out to Joe Tucker, who had righted up—

"Joseph Tucker, thy dog's fighting."

"Let 'em fight it out!" yelled the pugnacious owner of the strange dog. "Let 'em fight it out! I'll bet a load of wool my dog can eat any dog in town and I can eat the owner!"

We have said that Abraham Miller was a mild man; quakers are proverbially so. Not the goodliest thrown down by the burly stranger from the country, stirred the gall of Abraham, and he rushed into his store. From the back yard—snatching, slipped his collar—Abraham brought forth a brindle cur, long, strong and all powerful.

"Friend," said the excited quaker, "thy dog shall be well beaten I promise thee. Hike! seize upon him Turk, here boy!" and the dog went at it.

Bob Carter, the smith, coming up in time to hear the stranger's defiance to the town, and bent on a fight with somebody, for the insult and damage to his wife, clamped the collar of the stranger, and by a series of ten pound tens upon the face and back and sides of his bally antagonist, with his natural sledge hammer—Bob started up the strength and ire of the bally stranger. To the top of his compass, and they made the sparks fly dreadfully.

Joe Tucker's dog, reinforced by that of Abraham Miller's, took a fresh start, and between the two the strange dog was being cruelly put to his triumps. Deacon Pugh, one of the most red-tailed and substantial and pious men in Frogtown, came up, and indeed the whole town was assembling—and Deacon Pugh, armed with his heavy walking stick, and shocked at the spectacle before him, marched up to the dogs, exclaiming as he did so—

"Hike, ye for shame! disgraceful—men, citizens of Frogtown, will you stand by, and—"

"Don't thee, don't thee strike my dog, Deacon Pugh!" cried Abraham Miller, advancing upon the Deacon, who was about to cut right and left among the dogs with his cane.

"Your dogs!" shouted the Deacon with evident fervor. "To request thee to—"

"Not my dogs, Deacon Pugh!" echoed the quaker.

"What did you say so for then?" shouted the Deacon.

"I never said dogs, Deacon Pugh."

"You did!" responded the Deacon with excitement.

"Three speaks groundless, Deacon Pugh!" said the quaker.

"You tell's falsehood, Abraham Miller."

"Thy statements are groundless assertions!" reiterated Abraham.

"You—ye—ye tell an infernal lie!" bawled the Deacon.

These heat provoked my evil passions, Deacon Pugh, shouted the stalwart quaker, "and I will chastise thee!"

And into the Deacon's wool went the quaker. The Deacon, nothing loth, entered into the spirit of the thing, and we leave them thus, "nip and tuck," to look to Bob Carter and the stranger, who fit, and fought and fit, until Squire Catchem and the constable came up; and in their attempts to preserve the peace and arrest the offenders, the Squire was thrust through the window of a neighboring watch maker, doing a heap of damage, while Lawyer Hooker, in attempting to aid the Constable, was hit by mistake, by the furious blacksmith, in the short ribs, and went reeling down Gumbo's cellar with frightful velocity. The friends and fellow churchmen of Deacon Pugh took sides against the quaker antagonist, and the shopboys of Abraham, seeing their employer thus beset, came to the rescue, while a brace of Irishmen—full of valor and whiskey, believing it to be a free fight, used their hands and attacks upon the combatants indiscriminately, so that in less than one hour, the quiet and happy borough of Frogtown was shaken from its propriety, by one grand, sublimely ridiculous and terrific battle. Heads and widow were smashed, children and women ran screaming and screamed, dogs barked, dust flew, labor ceased, and so furious, mad and excited became the whole community that a quiet-looker on, if there had been any, would have sworn he had broken loose and the devils were all in Frogtown! A heavy thunder storm finally put an end to the row, the dogs were all more or less killed, a child severely wounded, a man scalded, wagon broken, the horse ran himself to death, his owner was beaten awfully by Bob Carter, whose wife and the wives of many others were dangerously scared, the painter was crippled, dry goods ruined, a quaker and deacon, two Irishmen, Joe Tucker, town constable, lawyer Hooker, Squire Catchem, and some fifty others shamefully whipped! Law suits ensued, feuds followed, and the entire peace and good repute of Frogtown annihilated—all by a remarkable dog fight.

The potato fly, a new pest, is doing much damage in Vermont.

A Prominent Citizen of New York Killed by the Blunder of an Apothecary.—About four o'clock P. M. yesterday, Mr. John Spicer, a prominent citizen of the Fifteenth Ward, living at No. 79 West-Eleventh street, feeling unwell, dispatched his colored servant for a sedative powder. This the domestic procured from a clerk named Joseph Simmons, in the drug store of Mr. J. B. French, No. 179 Sixth Avenue. The powder was taken by Mr. Spicer, who remarked to his wife that he had a singular taste. Soon after taking the powder he complained of feeling very unwell, with burning pains in the stomach, and shortly afterwards sent for Dr. Bartlett, who, on being informed of the symptoms of his patient, examined the sediment of the powder, and found traces of strychnine. Emetics were at once administered, but without avail, and he died in a very few moments.

Simmons was arrested and looked up in the Mercer street station. He states that these powders were prepared in the store, and that, for several days past, he has been selling to customers from the same jar from which the powder sent to Mr. Spicer was taken; in fact he had sold nearly a dozen powders from the same jar to various parties during yesterday. How the fatal mistake could have been made he professes himself entirely at a loss to say. He is held to await the action of the coroner's jury.

Cooking without Fire.—There is a place in Oregon called the Smoky Valley, where the people have a very curious way of cooking. They do not have the trouble of making a fire every morning when they wish to get breakfast. They just walk out with their kettles, coffee pots, and whatever else they need, and cook at the boiling springs. The water seems a great deal hotter than common boiling water, and all they need to do is to hang their kettles in it a short time, and their food is nicely cooked. They are able even to bake in it. The bread is put into a tight sauce-pan, and lowered into the boiling flood for an hour or two, and then drawn up most exquisitely baked, with but a thin rim of crust over it. Meat is cooked here, and beans, which are the miner's great luxury. It takes but a minute to cook eggs, or to make a pot of coffee or tea; but if there should chance to be a "slip between the cup and the lip," the food would be gone beyond recovery.

LOVELINESS.—It is not your neat dress, your expensive shawl, or your pretty fingers that attract the attention of men of sense. They look beyond these. It is the true loveliness of your nature that wins and continues to retain the affections of the heart. Young ladies sadly miss it who labor to improve their outward looks, while they bestow not a thought on their minds. Fools may be won by gewgaws and fashionable showy dresses, but the wise and substantial are never caught by such traps. Let modesty be your dress. Use pleasant and agreeable language, and though you may not be courted by fop and fool, the good and truly great will love to linger in your steps.

The wife of a mariner about to sail on a distant voyage, sent a note to the clergyman of the parish, expressing the following meaning: "A husband going to sea, his wife desires the prayers of the congregation. Unfortunately the good matron was not skilled in punctuation, nor had not the minister quick vision. He read the note as it was written: "A husband going to see his wife, desires the prayers of the congregation."

Three men, arrested for the late express car robbery, were hung by a mob at Seymour, Indiana, yesterday. The crowd stopped the cars and took forcible possession of the accused, on their way to jail, and lynched them.

A number of Germans propose purchasing 30,000 acres of land in Roanoke and Wythe counties, Virginia. Proposals have already been made by their agent for a number of farms.

Suits Against General Butler.—Yesterday afternoon Col. W. W. Woolley, of Cincinnati, who, it will be remembered, was lately in the custody of the impeachment managers at Washington, by his counsel, R. J. Brent and R. T. Merrick, Esqs., sued out of the Superior Court of this city a writ against Gen. B. F. Butler for false imprisonment, for incarcerating him before he had authority to do so from the House of Representatives, and also for seizing here the private telegrams of the Colonel. Damages were laid in this case at $100,000. Another suit was also brought in the same court by R. J. Brent and Wm. M. Addison, Esqs., as counsel for Kimberly Bros., of this city, to recover some $13,000, or more, alleged to have been extorted from them by Gen. Butler by duress, when military commander at Fortress Monroe. Process in both suits was duly served on Gen. Butler as he passed through here in the New York train last evening, on his way to Massachusetts.

SAND FLIES IN CHICAGO.—Immense numbers of sand flies suddenly appeared in Chicago on Monday evening of last week. Many saloons were compelled to close in order to prevent their ingress. Wherever a light was placed the flies gathered around it in millions, and covered the glass in the windows so as to render it almost an impossibility to see the gas jet. The street lamps were besieged, and in many instances the streets were as dark as if no gas were employed. The sidewalks were covered, and many were crushed to death beneath the feet of pedestrians. But still they increased, and about half-past ten o'clock they covered everything. Then they commenced to disappear, and at two o'clock next morning scarcely one was to be seen.

RUSTING METALS PREVENTED.—Lard or any kind of grease entirely free from salt will shut out air and moisture, both of which are essential to oxidation or rusting. A little resin (common "rosin") melted with lard makes the best coating for all kinds of iron and steel surfaces. It can be rubbed on table knives and forks, and other fine instruments, and then mostly wiped off, still leaving enough to protect the surface. The resin prevents rancidity of the lard, and is itself a protection. This mixture is cheap, and good for plow-shares, and all farm or mechanical implements of iron or steel. Two or three ounces, or more, of resin, may be added to a pound of lard.

We are very much surprised, notwithstanding all we have written on the subject, to find so many people sweating away at digging with a shade, when, in nine cases out of ten, the digging fork will do four times the work in the same time, with inexpressibly less labor. It is scarcely necessary to say that the people we see so barbarous are not our readers, but even "our own" people do not seem to know that a four-tined fork is much better than a five-tined one.

STORMS AND CROPS IN EUROPE.—Our latest English papers chronicle the close, in the south of England, of the long-continued drought. Heavy thunder showers fell in the region of London on the 11th and 12th, bringing rather tardy but still welcome relief. Barley, oats, turnips, and nearly all kinds of winter fodder had suffered severely for want of rain. Wheat showed less damage than might have been anticipated. Wheat and hay in the south of France had also suffered considerably from the drought—not enough, however, to prevent the general aspect of the harvests from being gratifying.

A Farmer's Club in Montgomery county, Penn., has voted, by a large majority, in favor of drill planting of corn.

A 230 pound black bear was trapped at West Thornton, N. H., last week. The lams in that vicinity are suffering from the depredation of bears.

All those indebted to this office for subscriptions, advertisements, or job work, are earnestly requested to make immediate payment. Our necessities require it, and our advanced age admonishes us of the propriety of settling up our affairs.

A Democratic and Conservative State Convention is proposed to be held in the city of Raleigh on Thursday the 13th inst. Large delegations have been appointed in many counties, and a full meeting is expected.

CONGRESS.

In accordance with a concurrent resolution, both Houses of Congress adjourned on Monday the 27th ult., to Monday the 21st of September next; and it is understood by all the Republican members that it shall not be incumbent upon them then to attend, unless they shall be notified that their attendance is necessary by the Hon. Edwin D. Morgan, chairman of the Republican Congressional committee on the part of the Senate, and the Hon. Robert C. Schenck, chairman of the said committee on the part of the House, said notice to be given on or before the 16th of September.

The bill which provided for the distribution of arms among the "loyal" people of the South, which had passed the Senate, was in the House referred to the military committee, where it was left at the adjournment. And the bill for the reorganization of the States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, which had passed the House, died in the Senate. Mr. Wilson at the session on Sunday night, reported a bill repealing the act forbidding military organizations in the Southern States, which passed the Senate, but was not voted on the House. A bill for funding the debt of the United States passed the Senate on Sunday night, and the House on Monday morning, and was presented to the President for his signature a few moments before the adjournment. The bonds were to run for thirty and forty years, and be free from taxation. The bill awaits the approval of the President to become a law.

Just before the adjournment of Congress a bill passed both Houses amending the Bankrupt law. By the amended bill the action of the fifty per cent clause, which was to have gone into effect on the 1st of June, is postponed until the 1st of January next.

The Hon. Reverdy Johnson and family sailed from Baltimore on Saturday last, on his mission to England.

Mrs. Lincoln, who expected to have gone to Europe under Mr. Johnson's protection, being too ill to travel, remains behind.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has gone to Europe. If his case is brought up in Court, he will, it is said, answer by attorney; or if his presence is necessary, he will be in Richmond within ten days after receiving notice by telegraph.

Joshua Hill and H. V. M. Miller have been elected by the Georgia Legislature to the U. S. Senate from that State, Hill for the long, and Miller for the short term. The choice appears to have been satisfactory to the Democrats, because of the triumph over Brown and Blodgett, though it is said Mr. Hill favors the election of Grant and Colfax.

Washington intelligence says that Gen. Howard, of the Freedmen's Bureau, started on the 3rd instant to visit the principal Bureau stations and make preparations to wind up the concern by January.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A serious accident occurred at Fort Wallace, Kansas, on the 19th instant, on the occasion of the late visit of Generals Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Dent to that post. While a salute was being fired, one of the gunners was injured by a premature discharge, both hands being carried away and his face badly mutilated. He was taken to the post hospital, where both arms were amputated by Surgeon Turner, U. S. A., and Surgeon H. I. Gilbert. The General-in-Chief and his companions were much grieved at the accident.

CURIOUS EXPERIMENT.—Hiram Moody, of South Amherst, Mass., has an apple tree now growing upon his farm which for several years blossomed well but bore no fruit. He put a stone into the crotch of the tree, and it has remained there and become completely imbedded in the tree, the bark has grown over it as smoothly as on any part of the tree, and since he first placed it there the tree has borne an abundance of fruit.

There is a herd of 35,000 head of Texas cattle in pasture at the junction of the Chicago branch of the Illinois Central and the Toledo, Wabash and Western railroads. When in proper trim they will be shipped to an Eastern market.

PUBLIC MEETING IN ORANGE.

At a meeting of the citizens of Orange county, at the Court House in Hillsborough, on the 29th of July, 1868, on motion of Maj. John W. Graham, Nelson R. Hall was called to the chair. By request of the chairman Maj. Graham explained the object of the meeting to be to express the sentiments of the people on the nominations of the National Democratic party for President and Vice President, and suggested that the chairman appoint two secretaries for the meeting. The chairman appointed Capt. Robert D. Graham and Jos. C. Webb, Jr.

Henry K. Nash, Esq., moved that the chairman appoint a committee of five, which afterwards, on motion, was increased to seven, to draft a set of resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting. The following gentlemen were thereupon appointed: Alvis Durham, Mebane Durham, John F. Lyons, Thomas Wilson, Col. Wm. H. Jordan, Maj. John W. Graham, and John N. Clark.

Henry K. Nash, Esq., announced that Col. Edward D. Hall was in town, and moved that a committee be appointed to wait upon that distinguished citizen and request him to address the meeting.

The chairman appointed Messrs. H. K. Nash and Thomas Webb for this purpose. Upon the reappearance of the committee with Col. Hall, they were received with immense applause. Mr. H. K. Nash, in a few very appropriate remarks, introduced Col. Hall.

The Colonel then proceeded to address the audience, though in an impromptu, yet in a clear, earnest and impressive speech, which was listened to with marked attention, and was received with frequent applause. He began by returning his thanks to the people of Orange for the handsome support that they had given him in the late contest for constitutional freedom; though he felt he could not take it as a personal compliment; the issue was too great for that. All could see now that the importance of the late election was not overestimated; that it was a contest between civilization on the one hand and corruption and semibarbarism on the other. The course of the successful party has been, as predicted, a warfare upon all that we have revered in the past history of the country, and the Executive has shown himself a tyrant more despotic than any power in Europe; and our mainstay in the past, the Judiciary, had been debased, internal improvements prostituted to political purposes, and all offices placed in the hands of men that have no interest in the welfare of the State. Our University to-day under a guard of soldiers, who had taken charge of the Libraries of the Societies, to prevent men from doing as they pleased with their own private property. We were told we were at last at home! What landmarks were left by which we could recognize the old homestead? After grand announcements of their programme, the Radicals had raised the curtain: And what a scene do they present us! They rule us and tax us without representation. Such is their reconstruction! Congress has only been undoing a simple act of Justice by Mr. Johnson to the Southern States since the surrender. He referred to the declared object of the Northern people in waging the late war, and the promises made to the masses who had enlisted under the old flag. It was to maintain an undivided Union of coequal states. All their authorities had declared this, Lincoln, Congress, and Seward in his despatches to foreign ministers. But the intention of the Radical party was to make it a matter of revenge, which they have manifested in their unnecessary contest with Mr. Johnson. What interest could we have in such a government? We would submit, but we would not participate! But he would warn the man "who writes himself Governor," that there was a length to which he must not go. We respect the authorities, we obey, but the spirit of '76 was still in the land; the sense of right and wrong in the people would teach him that all their rights could not be trampled upon with impunity. The acts of the Radical party would now go before the whole country of the American people. To them we appeal as our only hope. We were willing with them to accept the old flag as our ensign only as it represents a free country. He then alluded to the harmonious action of the New York Convention, and to the old parties. In times past he had been a Democrat, but we now have a platform broad enough for every man who desires the good of his country. He had loved the Democratic party, but he loved North Carolina more. No one could regret the Conservative vote he had given in the last election. The people could now see what the Radical party were doing. Nearly the first act of the Legislature was contrary to their constitution.

He then paid a glowing tribute to Gov. Seymour, his past history and his character, his bitterest enemy could say nothing against him. All their efforts to that end were in vain. He had been for the war, but for the constitution too. Gen. Blair had distinguished himself as a soldier in open fight against us, and his conduct since the war had proven him worthy of our trust. He fully endorsed his manly letter. He thought it clearly the duty of the United States, Supreme Court to decide that the laws enacted "outside the constitution" were null and void. Some seemed to think there would be difficulty in undoing the unconstitutional works of the Radical party in the late usurpations. He did not think so. Under the present regime he could not vote; and he pointed to several of the most worthy citizens in the house who could not vote. They submitted. Then why should not men who had lately gained this privilege by the usurpation of an unconstitutional Congress, also submit to the law? He alluded to our prospects for success. We would not have three day's voting next time, but one, and that without bayonets. We ask nothing but what is fair, and we will submit to nothing else. In 1866, the election in all the states except Maryland, Delaware and Kentucky had gone against us. But since then every state of the North without exception and change to our side, condemning by large majorities the action of the Fortieth Congress. Another item in our favor was the different reception by the country of the nominations of the two parties. They had relied upon the name of Gen. Grant to create a feeling which they knew their party could not, but the nomination has met with no enthusiasm. We all knew how different it was with Seymour and Blair. He alluded to the late enthusiastic Democratic meeting in Chicago, and the large number of men present who had heretofore acted with the opposite party. They were beginning to realize the danger of radicalism. We should not despair of the Republic. He wished to see the country united and prosperous, and regretted the unfortunate antagonism of the two races, which was unsought by us. While we had no unkindly feeling towards the black man, we could not shut our eyes to the condition of the two races. When he had prepared himself for the franchise he was willing that he should have it. He now thought he should have every right but that of deciding on matters on which they were not qualified to form an intelligent opinion.

Upon the conclusion of Col. Hall's remarks, the committee, through their chairman, Maj. J. W. Graham, reported the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, That we do heartily endorse the Platform of Principles adopted by the National Democratic Convention in the city of New York on the 4th of July, as a true exposition of the form of government contemplated by the constitution, and well calculated to secure the blessings of peace and liberty to our whole country.

2. Resolved, That we cordially ratify the nominations of Horatio Seymour and Frank P. Blair for President and Vice President of the United States; and recognizing in them statesmen of ability and experience, who will discharge the duties of these high offices with honor and fidelity, we will use every effort to promote their election.

3. Resolved, That we confidently appeal to the great mass of the Northern people for relief from the usurpations and tyranny of the Radical party, for the abolition of all ex post facto laws, and the restoration of all our rights and privileges, as a state of the American Union.

4. Resolved, That the spirit of oppression exhibited by the majority of the present Legislature and their subservency to Executive dictation, meet our unqualified condemnation, and we solemnly protest against the exercise of powers not delegated by the Constitution, and will use all lawful means to prevent encroachments upon our rights.

5. Resolved, That the faithful administration of Gov. Jonathan Worth, under the adverse circumstances by which he was surrounded, his zeal for the honor of North Carolina, and untiring efforts to promote the best interest of her citizens, as well as his manly and dignified protest on leaving the Executive office, deserve our warmest thanks.

6. Resolved, That we approve of the call for a mass Convention of the citizens of North Carolina, to be convened in the city of Raleigh on the 13th of August, and that the chairman of this meeting appoint fifty delegates to represent Orange county in said convention.

After a few appropriate remarks from Maj. Graham, Dr. E. Strudwick, Messrs. H. K. Nash, John W. Norwood, P. C. Cameron, Rev. T. U. Faucett, and Col. J. C. Webb, the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Alexander Dickson it was ordered that a copy of the resolutions be sent to the Hillsborough Recorder and Raleigh Sentinel with request for publication.

On motion of Mr. H. K. Nash, a unanimous vote of thanks were returned to Col. E. D. Hall for his able address.

In compliance with the resolutions, the chairman appointed the following delegates to the state Convention, to meet in Raleigh on the 13th of August: J. W. Norwood, K. Nash, Joseph C. Webb, Thos. Wilson, John J. Allison, W. H. Jordan, Josiah Farmer, Jos. W. McKee, L. W. Hall, J. N. Clark, Thos. H. Hughes, W. J. Gray, J. A. McDade, Nathaniel Bain, Robt. F. Webb, Addison Mangum, E. M. Holt, Mike W. Moore, D. R. Eiland, R. R. Tapp, Joseph A. Smith, Stephen Forrest, Wm. F. Strayhorn, R. M. Jones, U. E. Parish, Wm. A. Graham, John F. Lyon, Arch. Nichols, Jr., John Berry, Alvis Durham, Matt. Atwater, Jones Watson, Andrew Mickle, John W. Stroud, T. M. Argo, H. Tilly, W. F. Patterson, H. M. C. Stroud, Thos. D. Oldham, J. F. Minor, E. Sykes, G. W. Tate, Pride Jones, Paul C. Cameron, Dr. J. F. Cain, Dr. C. J. Freeland, James R. Miller, J. McCulloch.

The meeting then adjourned to meet on Saturday, 15th August.

THE NEW CHINA TREATY.

The new treaty with China, just completed by Mr. Seward with Mr. Burlingame and the mandarins in his suite, embraces some features of peculiar interest to the Christian world. By a skilful use of language, and relying on the Chinese ignorance of the liberal principles which are part and parcel of our theory, our Government, without making any additional concession to China, get most important concessions from her. The people of each country are to enjoy perfect religious liberty in the other; both countries agree to pass laws making it a penal offence for a citizen of the United States to take Chinese subjects either to the United States or to any other foreign country, or for a Chinese subject to take citizens of the United States to China or to any foreign country, without their free and voluntary consent respectively. Both countries will use their influence and efforts to obtain the establishment, by the general agreement of nations, of representative coins having a common value, and also a common standard of weights and measures for all countries. The United States freely agree that Chinese subjects shall, without hindrance on account of their nationality and religion, be admitted to all schools, colleges and other public educational institutions, without being subject to any religious or political tests; and, on the other hand, his Majesty the Emperor of China agrees that the citizens of the United States may freely establish and maintain schools in that empire at those places where foreigners are permitted by treaty to reside.

A MUSICAL PRODIGY IN NORFOLK.—Willie Kaufman, of Norfolk parentage, only thirty-one months old, and unfortunately blind, recently gave a musical entertainment. He played accompaniments to several songs sung by his father, clearly and distinctly, giving abundant evidence that he was playing by ear, and not repeating a lesson previously taught. Since he was eleven months old, little Willie has evinced a decided musical taste, and when two years of age could sing correctly bass, treble, or alto, to fifteen familiar tunes. His little hands are too small to grasp a full octave, and he frequently uses his elbow to strike the keys beyond the reach of his fingers, but even with this disadvantage, he very seldom strikes a false note. The father of this prodigy is a musician of ability, by whom his son's talent will be carefully cultivated.

AN IRON MOUNTAIN IN WEST VIRGINIA.—The Pittsburg Gazette says: "We are informed by Hon. D. D. T. Farrensworth, State Senator from Upshur county, West Virginia, that an iron mountain exists in the upper portion of that county, of greater extent and purity than any other known body of iron in the world, not excepting the famous iron mountain of Missouri, and that under this vast body of iron there is a vein of bituminous coal, measuring on the face, where the Buchanan river cuts through, twenty-five feet in thickness. He declares this ore to be so pure that a blacksmith took a piece and forged a horse-shoe from it."

Gen. Frank P. Blair is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

Arago says, in his "Autobiography," that his master in mathematics was a word or two of advice, which he found in the binding of one of his text books. Puzzled and discouraged by the difficulties he met with in his early studies, he was almost ready to give over the pursuit. Some words which he found on the waste-leaf, used to stiffen the cover of his paper-bound text-book, caught his eye, and interested him. "Impelled," he says, "by an indefinable curiosity, I dampened the cover of the book, and carefully unrolled the leaf, to see what was on the other side. It proved to be a short letter from D'Alembert to a young person disheartened, like myself, by the difficulties of a mathematical study, and who had written to him for counsel. "Go on, sir! go on!" was the counsel which D'Alembert gave him; the difficulties you meet will resolve themselves as you advance. Proceed, and light will dawn and shine with increased clearness on your path." "That maxim," says Arago, "was my greatest master in mathematics." Following out these simple words, "Go on, sir! go on!" made him the first astronomical mathematician of his age. What Christians it would make of us! What heroes of faith, what sages in holy wisdom, should we become, just by acting out that maxim, "Go on, sir! go on!"

APPROPRIATION BILLS PASSED BY CONGRESS.

Obituary.
Died, at the Hillsborough House, in Hillsborough, N. C., on the 31st day of July, 1868, J. W. MIN-DRED, of Lebanon, Kentucky. This young man reached here only a few days before his death, on a business tour as special agent of the "Home Insurance Company," of Columbus, Georgia. He was taken violently ill with a congestive chill, and though receiving every attention which the skill of his able physician could suggest, he passed away from earth, yielding up his spirit to the God who gave it.
Far from home and kindred, without the comfort of loved ones to watch and tend him, to cheer him by their presence and to brighten his last hours by gentle whispers of holy hope, he yet was not neglected in a stranger land; for though unconscious, and without the power to thank, kind friends they were, who furnished his dying couch, and waited with tender solicitude upon his sufferings at their house. Good Samaritans were found for him, who, as far as kind benevolence could accomplish it, represented in their ministrations those absent ones who could not come; and, when all was over for him on earth, with the forms and prayers of religion laid him to repose upon the bosom of his mother earth until his final awakening.

THE CAROLINA FARMER.
BELIEVING that the interests of the Farmers and Planters of this section demand the publication of a periodical devoted to the advancement of Agriculture in the two Carolinas, we have determined to establish such a periodical under the title of THE CAROLINA FARMER, and will issue the first number as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained to pay a reasonable share of the expense of publication.
The Farmer will be issued monthly at $2 per annum, in advance; will contain not less than thirty-two large double-column pages of reading matter, bound in handsome covers; and in typographical execution will not be surpassed by any Agricultural Monthly in the country.
Being determined to do whatever energy will accomplish in making the Farmer worthy the support of the intelligent Planters and Farmers of North Carolina and South Carolina; and desiring to introduce it into every county in those States, we wish to employ active Agents at every Post-office, to whom the most liberal inducements will be offered.
Our exchanges in the two Carolinas will confer a favor, which we will be glad to reciprocate, by giving this announcement a few insertions in their advertising columns, with such editorial comment as they think the probable value of such a periodical as we propose publishing may justify.
Address all communications to
